Icebreaker at the Portland Center for Performing Arts

Hosted by the Oregon Zoo

The Portland Center for the Performing Arts (PCPA) is the premier arts and entertainment venue in the Pacific Northwest. Nationally recognized as one of the top 10 performing arts centers in the nation, the PCPA is the backdrop for the 2009 Icebreaker. Enjoy catching up with friends and colleagues, while dining on local Northwest fare. Experience different regional cuisine on each floor and a cocktail ice sculpture luge!

PCPA is located at the corner of Broadway and Main, across the street from the Hilton Hotel, or a short MAX ride from the Convention Center and Doubletree Hotel.

Rainwater Processing

OCC's Rain Garden features an extensive system that takes rainwater from the facility's roof and filters it through a series of settling ponds and landscaping before it's released into the nearby Willamette River. The grounds and the building exteriors are both designed to reduce the heat islands produced by asphalt, concrete or open hardsurface roofs. The use of natural habitat vegetation in landscaping and the facility's roof design meet Energy Star requirements for emissivity and reflectance.
